Thinking Out Loud

By H. M. L.

We have in this country, it seems, a large Do Nothing party. Some people might suppose it the heir of an older party thus dubbed, but our opinion is that they are descendents of our Yankee horse traders who are ashamed of their ancestry. History does not record whether the horse traders ever got rich or not, but they certainly did take their chances in life, "with a heart for any fate."

In the long years of the Roosevelt regime, a nation has been taught to live softly. If a man fails to make the grade for any reason, including all the vices, he may look to his fellow citizens to support him and rely confidently on a paternal government to see that they do support him, if not in luxury at least with most of comforts of American standards. The old saying "root hog or die" is never heard in these effete times. The hog who shirks the rooting need have no fear. A kind hearted master will force food down his throat.

These tender social reforms that we have are perhaps fine things to possess in an era of peace, but many people are beginning to think they are a decided handicap in time of war. The president says we are going to carry on in a world at war, and at the same time maintain our social gains. Events of a world-wide kind, however, often confound the best of humanitarians, not to mention the most ambitious.

We are entering upon an all-out aid to Britain and other oppressed nations in a desperate attempt to retain our institutions against the increasing encroachment of totalitarian tyrants. If hundreds of thousands of American working men are going to seize this opportunity to demand higher wages, particularly after their employers have signed contracts to produce war munitions at a given price, we shall presently see government seizure of manufacturing plants, and men at work without the right to strike, at wages fixed by the government. This is precisely what Germans are doing today, and, for that matter nearly all people of Europe are doing. Paradoxically this is precisely the thing most obnoxious to Americans. The thing we are preparing to do battle against.

Why are we faced with this ugly paradox, this vicious alternative? For this reason: Sapping of the national spirit of independence, initiative, and the old willingness to take a chance, by social reforms that have reduced a large proportion of our population to abject dependence on the bounty of government. And this not so much because the reforms themselves were not good, but because of careless disregard of spiritual and material costs to all the people. Do away with "the silly, foolish dollar sign" cried the Washington left-wingers in effect. "The end justifies the means."

Now that we face the stern necessity of arming to meet foes in both oceans if need be, we must do so with a large segment of the population which has been spiritually papperized. A government that until recently has openly abetted the extreme radicals, that is to say, all those who espoused the governmental ideologies of foreign dictators. Muddled masses floundering in mental miasmas, subsisting on slogans and platitudes, dreams and fantasies. The lessons of our history have been disregarded by those who are making history.

Out of this world crisis must come chastened peoples. Nations stripped of their delusions that government can do for them what they are unable or refuse to do for themselves. All governments to whom power is given, are a little corrupted because, after all, governments are human agencies. The more power the greater the

ROCK BLOCKS ROAD

..LAST MINUTE NEWS..

BRIDGE WIDENING STARTS

Work started today on the widening of the Gault Bridge and at the same time operations began on the Gold Run Bridge.

The Gault Bridge project will necessitate the closing of the route to traffic for about ten days or two weeks. The bridge will be open to pedestrian travel, however. Ted Edinger has been awarded a contract for the steel work by the city council. The project, which involves $5,400 is being done with a Works Progress Administration crew and supervised by Herbert Hallett, city superintendent of public works.

The Gold Run Bridge will be widened 12 feet, with the sidewalk in addition. The dirt being excavated on the Gault Bridge project is being used for fill on the Gold Run job. Labor is furnished by the WPA and the equipment by the city.

RAINFALL TOTAL CLIMBS

Since March 1st, a total of 3.45 inches of rain has fallen, giving this city a 59.07 total for the season. This is nearly five inches above the normal yearly fall.

Mrs. Jennie Preston reveals the March 1st rainfall was 1.55; .90 inch for March 2nd and during the past 24 hours an even one inch has fallen.

The weather forecasters do not know what to expect for the week. There is a big storm reported off the coast of San Francisco but whether it will strike here is not known.

Yesterday's storm included rain, hail and thunder. Snow fell as low as the Five Mile House. There was 18 inches of new snow reported at Stephollow. The pack at Steephollow is now 63 inches. Six inches fell at the Junction House and eight inches in Bear Valley.

Snow plows worked throughout the day and night to keep the Tahoe-Ukiah Highway open to traffic. The Yuba Pass route is open as far as Sierra City.

Youth Confesses Burglaries

Roland Guenett, 20, picked up on a charge of driving without a license, was found to be wanted in Hollywood on ten counts of burglary.

Guenett, who has many aliases, confessed to Sheriff Carl J. Tobiassen of the Hollywood burglaries and also informed the local officer he burglarized the Texas Dining Room in North Sacramento while enroute to Nevada County.

It is expected the youth will be returned to either Sacramento or Los Angeles Counties to stand trial on the burglary counts. The youth gave his name as George Harry Goodman when taken into custody here.

The return on his fingerprints from the state bureau pf identification reveals he has a long record, even though he is only 20 years of age.

Company E Inducted Into Service

Company E, 115th Engineers, California National Guard, was inducted into service at 8 a. m. today in the Veterans Memorial Building in Grass Valley.

The National Guard Company, composed of 69 enlisted men and three officers from this county, will train in Grass Valley until March 13th, when they will leave for San Luis Obipso to complete a year's service.

Peace Officers Transact Considerable Business

Considerable business was transacted at the meeting of the Sierra-Nevada County Peace Officers Association meeting here Friday night in the New York Hotel. The general meeting and dinner was followed by the showing of big game pictures in Canada by Captain Bill Foster of Rio Vista, who was the guest of Russell Farley.

There were 41 present at the meeting. A report was made by President A. H. Willard on the building of a new road into the association range. Foundations have been set for a store house on the grounds.

The association members appointed Willard as its representative to assist in the farewell celebration plans for Company E, 115th Engineers California National Guard.

Committees Appointed

A committee composed of R N. McCormack, Sr., R. N. McCormack, and Fred Williford was appointed to audit the secretary's books in conformity with the by-laws of the organization.

Gene Johnson, chairman, Carl Larsen and Captain Willard were named as a committee to improve the association's shooting range.

Secretary H. F. Sofge announced at the next meeting new officers will be elected. To vote members must be paid up. Sofge announced dues can be sent to him.

Next Meeting In G. V.

The next meeting of the group will be held at the New Era Cafe in Grass Valley on March 28th.

The organization went on record as opposing Assembly Bills No. 1126 and 1365 and Senate Bill No. 637.

Assembly Bill No. 1126 would regulate the manufacture, sale and possession of explosives. The objectionable part of the bill to the peace officers is that it would require a possessor's license for everyone doing reloading. It includes police departments as well as individuals. The license fee would be $5.00 per year.

Assembly Bill No. 1365 and Senate Bill No. 637 would require a license to purchase a pistol or revolver and to take a pistol or revolver from the home to the target range. The state licensing officer may require applicants to furnish their fingerprints in order to determine whether they have a criminal record. He may also require a recent photograph. A target shotter's license coud be obtained only for "target pistols with barrels at least six inches long or .45 caliber United States service pistols." The cost of a license would be 50 cents per year.

Rain Blues Cure

A cure for the "rain blues" can be had by studying the rain chart in the window at the Colley Confectionery Store.

This chart will make you thankful you weren't around in 1867-68. In that year a total of 115.26 inches of rain fell in this city.

And here we are moaning about a 60 inch rainfall, the amount which has been deposited here by Jupiter Pluvius to date.

The year of '89-90, which the old timers here can recall could not be termed a dry year either. During that season there was a 100.15 inch rainfall.

The chart is arousing much interest. Every one is interested in the weather. A table refreshes memories by the information that in 1935-36, 57.95 inches of rain fell; 66.79 in 36-37; 76.23 in 37-38; 28.92 in 38-39 and 60.28 in 39-40.

Causes One To Think

No matter whether one agrees with him or not, Pierra van Paasen, author and journalist, who has lectured in various cities in this state, has revealed things which should cause everyone to think twice about the world situation today.

From his years of experience as a foreign correspondent in nearly every capital of Europe, van Paasen drew these conclusions and presented them as flat statements of fact:

1—America must aid Britain in defense of the western hemisphere.

2—Hitler's agents are already working in the United States.

3—The United States is already in the war.

4—An old civilization is falling and a new and broader one emerging.

5—If the British navy is lost, the United States "within an hour's time" will sink to a third-rate power.

Modern communications have caused men and women in all corners of the world to begin to think alike, van Paasen declared, and this is leading to a world wide economic unity. In this unification, he charged, the democracies are taking a back seat while the totalitarian powers are taking the lead—in a ruthless manner.

Talk that since Hitler has not crossed the English channel, he can't cross the Atlantic ocean, van Paasen termed "childish," declaring that the only thing keeping Hitler from crossing the channel—and eventually the Atlantic — is the British navy.

The dissension among various groups in America, van Paasen professed to see the work of Hitler's agents, beginning a "divide and conquer movement.'

To a question by one of the audience on convoys and whether convoying of materiel to Britain would mean war with Germany, van Paasen returned:

"Sure—but what's the difference, we're at war already."

And in those nine words the speaker summed up a world of fact.

Teecnically, we are neutral, but as a matter of actual fact we are fulfilling the role of a belligerent.

Van Paasen quoted German officials as saying Americans are the "most unsuspecting" people in the world and won't realize until too late what is about to engulf their nation.

What America needs is more men like van Paasen to step out, make challenging statements such as he made and start them thinking about the world in which they live—in other words, to snap them out of this unsuspecting attitude into one of alertness and knowledge.

Let's Get Going

There was a very spirited discussion the other night on the air as to whether the U. S. A. needs new legislation to curb strikes in these critical days of national defense. Strikes in general were given a ribbing, and those opposed to the closed shop "got theirs" too. While it was reassuring to hear the American Federation of Labor pledge its loyalty, and to be told by another labor organization spokesman that strikes are far less in number than during the last world war, it would have been highly beneficial for labor everywhere and for everybody listening in had the "New Order" proposed by Hitler been more thoroughly aired.

Labor should realize that they as free men, are building a defense against the system that elsewhere has enslaved workingmen and made serfs for dictators either through the revolution into which they blindly walked and were entrapped, or through the invasion technique where countries once free were taken over and forced to obey the command of the military Goliath and his war machine. Wages and hours, labor relations acts and jurisdictional wrangles are as useless in Germany and the conquered countries under the iron heel as childish Sunday School voices, for labor without the liberty such as our own democracy provides is mired into a system which dooms free men and makes the state the master, and it is to be the German state if Hitler has his way. He is fast making Europe just that, and were it not for England and the Greeks, who love their country better than their life, better than their creature comforts, all of Europe would be in the big putsch, tied to the wheel of the Nazi war machine or mere spokes in the driving force of the dictator and his stooges, telling men how they must sweat or bleed for the cause.

While some of our statesmen and politicians bicker and quarrel in Washington over what help to give the fight that is on to halt this monstrous assault on liberty and freedom, while organized labor in big defense industry lays down its tools and holds up the Supreme effort of their country to turn out materials to stop the march of conquest and protect our shores from imminent threats in the Orient and elsewhere, the American people are in absolute peril, their vote of confidence in President Roosevelt nullified and invalidated. If democracy is to be justified, upheld ,and fought for, now is the time to prove it, and those who through short sightedness, partisan animosity or greed rock the boat, muddy the waters or befog the horizon what would you call them? We have decided as a nation to defend our form of government aganist the totalitarian world. Let's get going!—Sonoma Index-Tribune.

California Second In Natural Gas Output

SACRAMENTO, March 3.—(UP)—California is the second largest producer of natural gas, with Texas leading the field by a wide margin, according to a report of the U. S. department of the interior.

Figures for 1939 showed that California had a commercial output of 348,361 million cubic feet, while Texas produced 979,427 million cubic feet. Other leading states were Louisiana 294,370; Oklahoma 250,875; West Virginia 159,226; Pennsylvania 93,882 and Kansas 80,556.

NEVADA CITY HOME TO 16,000 MINERS IN 1850

The first cabin in Nevada City was built by John Pennington, Thomas Cross and William McCraig somewhere on Gold Run in September 1849. In October, Dr. A. B. Caldwell built a log store near where the old brick school was located. Madam Penn, one of the first women in what is now Nevada City, helped her husband by carrying dirt to be washed for gold. In the spring of 1850, she built a boarding house on the spot where the Union Hotel now stands.

Until March, 1850, the city was known as "Deer Creek Dry Diggings" or Caldwell's Store. So many crimes were committed in this year that they decided to have a city and regular officers. This was done under Mexican law. At the same time the name "Nevada," meaning "snowy", was adopted for the city.

In 1850, it is estimated nearly 16,000 miners came to Nevada City. The town grew as if by magic. Hundreds of stores and other buildings were erected. The town had grown so much during the year that there was at least 250 buildings in the city plus all cabins and tents spread over a space of two miles in diameter with the Plaza as its center.

On the 11th of March, 1851, incendiarists started a fire that burned over one half of the city. The business part of the town was entirely burned. Pine trees caught fire and dropped flaming branches, and spreading the fire. Within three hours property valued at $500,000 went up in smoke.

The first shows were given by Hamlet Davis in the upper story of the brick building at Broad and Pine Streets. They were so successful and profitable that another theatre was built on rock piles over Deer Creek. It was called the Jenny Lind. On March 6, 1852, after a terrible storm wind and rain, a log came down the torrent of Deer Creek, carried away the Main Street bridge. The bridge in turn knocked out the foundations of the theatre, as well as a few boarding houses, and the whole works went floating down the stream.

RADIO CYCLES GET SHAKE-UP

SACRAMENTO, March 3.—Owners of more than 50,000,000 radio receivers in the United States will be affected on March 29th when broadcasters change their frequencies in accordance with the North American regional broadcasting agreement negotiated two years ago at Havana among Cuba, Mexico, Canada and the United States.

Ninety per cent of the almost 900 radio broadcasting stations in this country will switch to higher frequencies in order to provide for better reception, less interference and less conflict with stations south of the border.

All stations broadcasting on a band above 740 kilocycles are affected by the change. The Havana treaty became law when it was ratified by the U. S. Congress, and the Cuban, Canadian and Mexican governments have given their assent.

Mexico, with a number of high-powered radio stations which hitherto could wander around the dial at will, in some cases interfering seriously with United States reception of domestic broadcasts, was the last to ratify the Havana treaty.

Radio receiving sets in the United States will have to be realigned to accomodate the changed broadcast frequencies, since where broadcasters presently operate within the 550-1500 kilocycle band, they will go up to 550-1600 under the treaty.

This will have a far-reaching effect tuning, such as the push-button type. These facilities will have to be relocated to care for the advance in frequency adjustment.

The Havana agreement provides that there shall be no change for stations broadcasting from 550 to 720 kilocycles. But for stations in the 740-780 band, there is a boost of ten kilocycles; stations in the 790-870 band will increase their dial setting by 20.

So-called clear channel stations in the 1450-1490 band will operate after March 29th in the 1500-1530 band. Local stations now broadcasting on 15500 kilocycles will go down to 1490.

Stations in Canada, Merico and Cuba will likewise shift. Broadcasters expect the result of this change to be reception of a much higher clarity and value than hitherto possible, due to the expected elimination of jumbled and overlapping frequencies.

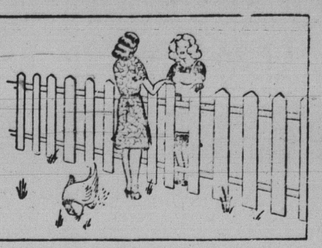
THIS BUSINESS OF Living
BY SUSAN THAYER



"UNCLE SAM'S BIG HOUSEHOLD"

Every spring for the past four years the Smiths had talked about getting a new sofa for the living room. Now, at long last, the time seemed to have come to make the purchase. Mother had found "just the thing" she wanted down at the furniture store. Father had said "go ahead, get it." and the children had said it was "certainly a honey." But there was to be one more solemn conference on the subject.

"Maybe we ought to save the money for a trip this summer or put it away in the bank. No telling what's going to happen," Mother said magnanimously, seeing that beautiful new sofa in her mind's eye all the time. While Bill piped up with the suggestion that he could certainly use a new bicycle and Sister wondered when she'd ever have a new rug for her bedroom. But Father was adamant. "No, children," he told them. "We can't have everything and your Mother's got her heart set on that sofa. Maybe we can get that bicycle this fall and the rug another spring."

Little scenes like this are going on in homes all over the country this spring as they have been for generations. For there's an old saying that "we cannot eat our cake and have it too" and in most households we can't buy everything at once. If we spend for a sofa we must go without a rug for the time being—and if we buy a new car we must go easy on other expenses. Of course, there are certain things that must be bought day after day, year in and year out—such as food, clothes and shelter—but we have to arrange for every big expenditure.

Our country as a whole, has its spending problems too. There's just so much in the national treasury and even if we increase taxes, there's still a limit to what Uncle Sam has to spend on his big household.

Right now our country has to spend more than we can imagine on guns and planes and ships and the camps, and every one is agreed that these amounts must be poured out in order to make us so strong no country will dare to attack us. But because we're spending all of this on defense we must go easy other places or there will be trouble—just as there would be in your family budget if you insisted on buying everything at once.

And where can we save? Not on needed relief—not on insurance—not on the regular functions of government but on the waste and extravagance of local governments. Experts tell us that million of dollars could be saved for Uncle Sam if people would watch local expenditures: if we would take the trouble to see that the money spent right at home under our noses as it were, is spent wisely and without waste. It will take a little trouble—it might take a little time—but it will be worth it if we all help keep our country to be as reasonable about spending as our family is!

MR. & MRS. SMITH GREAT COMEDY TO OPEN TUESDAY

Coming back with a bang to high-speed mirth making after their recent dramatic successes, Carole Lombard and Robert Montgomery are co-starred in "Mr. and Mrs. Smith," which is hailed as the outstanding comedy offering of the season, and which teams the two favorites for the first time. It opens tomorrow evening in Nevada Theatre.

The story is particularly adapted to the fun making talents of the two stars. It presents Montgomery as David Smith, a prosperous New York City attorney, and Miss Lombard as his wife of three years' stormy standing. Their frequent quarrels are automatically concluded by a mutual rule that both parties must remain in their bedroom until they have made up.

This process works admirably until David learns that because of an error in a land survey their marriage was illegal, and that he and Ann are each free to marry anyone. David's ill timed sense of humor leads him to conceal the discovery and this infuriates Ann, who makes up her mind she won't remarry him.
